Senior agency begins home-delivered lunch service in Rossville

ROSSVILLE—A new service is being started for local senior citizens.

Home-delivered lunches for the homebound are now available through CRIS Senior Services in Danville.

Meals are available Monday through Friday, for a suggested donation of $1.75 per meal, said CRIS executive director Linda Ireland.

To qualify for the program, residents must be 60 or older or be married to someone over 60 and must meet criteria for limited mobility, Ireland said.

The program is not for those who are able to go to congregate sites in Hoopeston or Danville. "If they're able to get out, we encourage them to do that," Ireland said.

This is the first time a delivery service has been available in Rossville. "We've had a need in the area and not been able to meet it," Ireland said. CRIS received additional funding for home-delivered meals and decided to target Rossville, she added.

Last year, a list of clients was developed at CRIS, but Ireland said the list is out-dated. "Some of the people have moved into a facility or passed away or moved in with children," she said.

Seniors who need the service, or others who know someone who might benefit from home delivered lunches, should call CRIS at (217) 443-2999 and ask for Christine or the home meals assessment person.

A telephone "mini assessment" will be conducted by phone and a caseworker will make a home visit within two weeks after the initial contact, Ireland said. The caseworker will gather more information and make suggestions for other available services, she said.

Seniors will not have to make a trip to the Danville office. "We realize if they can't get out of the house for food, they won't be able to come here for assessment," she said.
